Feedly makes it easy to follow the sources and blogs you care about, regardless of whether they are related to technology or if you are following standard news. Free w/IAP in Google Play Twitter Standard is fine for most, but it doesn't offer much in a customizable way to create a schedule you're interested in. With Fenix 2, you can not only add multiple accounts, but you are given full control over the allocation of the home screen and you can choose different topics. $5 in Google Play Reddit is an internet playground and with an app like Relay, you can now customize how you interact with it. Regardless of whether you're just a moderator or admin, you can use a sequence in your free time and customize it to your liking. Free w/IAP in Google Pocket Play is great for those who don't have time to read the article they found online. Simply share the article with pocket and will save later, allowing you to read at your own pace without forgetting the link or accidentally closing out the article. Pocket even makes it possible for you to listen to the material that has been shared on your list with the benefit of the headphone button. Free w/IAP in Google Play Fleksy keyboard has been around for some time and has seen some extensive improvements. This includes the ability to create a custom keyboard while allowing you to install plug-ins for the GIF keyboard, Keyboard, and even mini-apps are easily accessible without opening another app. Free w/IAP in Google Play If you're just trying to get reminders and notes from your head and to another service, Google's keeping is perfect. There are multiple formats for your feedback, and you can even use the app as a task manager if you're inclined to. In addition, Google includes some different widgets so you can easily monitor and access your notes from the home screen. For free in Google Play with an app like Join, you're probably an energy user, or just want to be able to remotely access your Android tablet. There are features such as clipboard sharing, SMS, and the ability to receive notifications without your device needing you in front of you. But in fact, the app does much more than one expects and unlocks android capabilities. Free w/ IAP in Google Play Are you a comics enthusiast and want a better way to read comics than just on your phone? With comics from Comixology, you can get over 100,000 digital comics, and you can save books downloaded on a microSD card for offline reading. The free Kindle app in The Google Play Amazon app has become the real choice to read your favorite books, magazines and even comics. You can find new books directly from the app, and you can also take advantage of books that include Audible's narration to play audio. For free in Google Play there are times where you can get access to a book that will not be imported to another application. With Moon + Reader you can easily read these books and get customizable visual options, along with 10 different topics and much more. Google Play Microsoft has made great strides to turn OneNote into a great note-taking app, and there is now support to write or draw notes with a pen. This digital laptop makes noting your ideas a breeze and then making them available across many more devices than just your tablet. Free w/IAP discs are released in Google Play More with pen support, eliminating the need to carry a pen and notebook with you. Thanks to MyScript Nebo, you can carry your notes with you on the go, and make them synchronized across multiple devices with ease. Then, notes can be converted into different formats to share quickly with others. $10 in Google Play admittedly, GoneMAD is for those who have downloaded music to a microSD card or directly to your tablet. This music player makes organizing and playback easy and supports a large amount of formats along with Chromecast support and a customizable interface.
